KILLED BY A TEACUP.

John Howard, the Chimney Sweep, Hits His Mistress a Fatal Blow.

VICTIM IS AMELIA CALLANDER.

Howard and His Victim Are Colored People and Were Hard Drinkers.

Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock John Howard threw a teacup at Amelia Callander with wicked force. The woman died at 7 o'clock this morning. Howard is in jail. Both are colored.

Howard is the chimney sweep whose voice has been heard from nearly every tall chimney in the city. He is a good-natured fellow when sober but he was rarely sober.

Saturday night he closed a three weeks' drunk. The woman he lived with, but who was not his wife, also enjoyed the flowing bowl. They lived with a family on Park street and Saturday evening when Howard went home a dispute arose and Howard struck an ugly blow at the woman. He missed her and then he grabbed up a teacup and flung it at her. The cup struck the woman in the forehead, the handle of the cup entering the head and severing an artery. The victim was carried to Dr. Tutton's office where the wound was dressed. The victim bled about four quarts.

Miss Callander was removed to the residence of George Brown on Britain Avenue where she died.

Coroner Brown summoned a jury consisting of Dr. Freemyer, E. S. Wagner, John A. Mays, Austin Crago, D. C. Morrison and Cassius Bragg. The jury viewed the remains and witnessed the postmortem made by Drs. Tutton and John Bell and are now holding the inquest.

Shortly after the crime was committed Chief Hepler found Howard hiding in an alley and took him to jail.

Howard has a wife and several children in Indiana.

Dewey Ordered to Send the Baltimore to China at Once.

Minister Conger Takes a Hand In the Matter.

By Telegraph to Evening News.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Instructions have been sent to Dewey directing him to send the cruiser Baltimore to Tien Tsin, China, at once. This action shows conclusively that some concern is felt by the administration over the existing conditions in China.

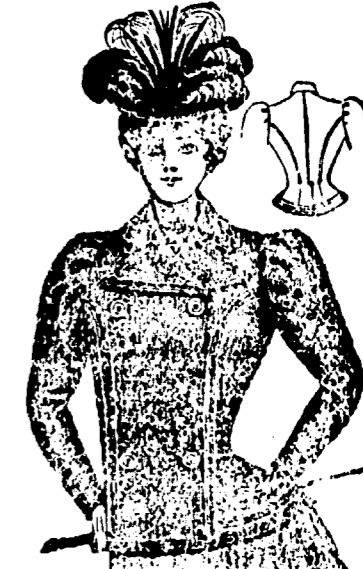

Instructions to the Baltimore's captain require him immediately on his arrival to communicate with Minister Conger and take every step needful to protect American interests.

Washington, Oct. 3.—A telegram from the minister to China states there is no serious danger yet but considerable anxiety is felt for the future. Foreign fleets are assembling at Tien Tsin and some ministers are ordering marines to Pekin for legation guards.

DEHORNING CATTLE.

The Practice as Commonly Carried on in Many Sections.

New Hampshire bulletin No. 50 is an illustrated pamphlet on dehorning cattle, telling how to dehorn, and showing how by photographs.

Beginning with the years 1885 and 1886, the practice of dehorning cattle has rapidly grown in favor, until at present it is commonly practiced in many sections. Illinois is credited with being the first state to advocate it. From the first many have strenuously objected to it, numerous law suits resulting therefrom. Most of these prosecutions have taken place under the law for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Many states have had test cases, but no one in the United States, so far as we can learn, has been convicted where the case was carried to the higher courts. Canada has gone further than any other country in instituting legal proceedings to settle the question. A commission was appointed by the government, which reported, in 1882, in favor of the operation when performed with reasonable skill.

As has already been indicated, it is believed that dehorning not only eliminates the danger of life, and is therefore of the utmost importance, but it has its economic bearing as well. It is well understood that where the milk cows are gently cared for, and not over exercised, other things being equal, more milk is produced. For the same reason it is evident that beef animals will gain more rapidly where hornless, the nourishment exhausted in fighting tendencies being stored up as flesh. Animals are more cheaply transported by live weight, when dehorned, as more can be accommodated in less space and with less danger.

The things necessary to success in dehorning are two strong, quiet men of nerve, a stout stall or stanchion, a good nose ring, a pleasant day (not in fly time), and some bandages, tar and absorbents to check the flow of blood and a few extra handles for the machine if clippers are used.

One of last winter's dairy school students and his brother purchased a pair of Keystone clippers two years ago, and after operating on their own herd, made a business of dehorning for others at the rate of 15 cents per head. Up to the present time they have dehorned over 1,500 animals in and about Littleton.

Many of the disagreeable features of dehorning may be avoided by preventing the horns of calves from developing.

The horns of cattle consist of two parts of different origin; the outer horny shell is a growth derived from the skin; the inner part or pith consists of bone and is an outgrowth of the skull.

At the birth of the calf each of these parts is undeveloped, and only exists as a possibility; but they at once begin to grow, and in a short time the young horns can be felt as a slight elevation or button.

Bones are covered with a tough, fibrous membrane known as the periosteum, from the inner surface of which new bone is continually being formed upon the surface of the old.

The Horse that is Wanted.
Another consideration, and a very important one, is that there are now calls for ten horses suitable for "heavy leather," where there is a call for one trotter. While the ability to step-a-bit always appeals to our hearts, the laws of nearly all cities prohibit a speed greater than seven miles an hour. Rich people, who can afford to keep good horses and pay long prices for them, want style, beauty and action. The carriages are large, heavy and expensive, and the prices of harness would make an ordinary man's salary for a year. Animals suitable to show off the beautiful trappings must be in keeping, and it is not a question of price.

To show what one man, under the right teaching, can do in a way of producing the proper animals, it is only necessary to cite the case of one Virginia farmer. He has now marketed about 75 half bred Hackneys at auction, to go to the highest bidder, at an average within a few dollars of $800 for each and every horse. This is success that can be easily duplicated, and the market is waiting and ready to take every one that can be produced.—E. T. Riddick, in Country Gentleman.

Asparagus Growing.

The Missouri Experiment Station has been experimenting for the past two years with asparagus growing, and has successfully grown asparagus in open field in mid-winter by running steam into shallow tunnels between the asparagus rows. The asparagus field was first covered with six or seven inches of heating horse manure, and the steam forced into the soil from the green-house boiler. By this means a large yield of fine asparagus was obtained throughout the months of December, January and February; the finest, quality being gotten in the middle of January, when the weather was coldest. Many of the sprouts were twelve or fourteen inches long and an inch in diameter, bleached perfectly and very tender and delicious. The amount of steam required was very small, and for persons located near a good market the winter growing of asparagus would prove very profitable. Bulletin No. 43, by Prof. J. C. Whitten, processes and the results obtained. This illustrated bulletin is for free distribution among the farmers and gardeners, and may be had by addressing the Director of the Experiment Station, at Columbia.

Sunflower Seeds for Poultry.
Have you planted that patch of rich ground to sunflower seeds? If not, there should be no delay in preparing for a full crop of this valuable and inexpensive food for hens and other animals. The new mammoth Russian sunflower seed, which is a much larger seed, and contains more egg-forming material than the common sunflower is the best kind to plant. Put in drills two feet apart and eight inches in the drill and when well started, thin out every other stalk. Then cut the side sprigs and throw all the force of the plant into one large head. Sunflowers can be grown everywhere on rich soil and it is yet to become one of the regular fattening foods, not only for hens but for sheep, horses and meat stock. Grow a lot of sunflowers.

FLYING MACHINE

Description of One a St. Joseph Man is Building...

A. M. Herring, the St. Joseph man who is building an air ship or flying machine, which is destined to be successful, has furnished THE NEWS the following description of his invention: I am continuing some experiments which were conducted last year at Dunn Park, Ind. The experiments of last year were with an experimental piece of apparatus which might be termed a flying machine in that it carried a man in gliding or sailing flights for short distances. It was, however, a machine improvised with any motive power other than that furnished by gliding through the air in a descending path, or under favorable conditions by power furnished by the natural wind—that is by wind which was following an ascending path, which sometimes furnished sufficient power to support the apparatus and operator for 15 to 20 seconds and propell them through the air at a fair rate of speed—from 20 to 40 miles an hour.

Last year's experiments and those which preceded them were for the purpose of evolving an apparatus which should be safe. This year my experiments—so far as made here have been devoted to the collection of data, such as the measurement of the exact amount of power required to keep the apparatus afloat and the minimum speed at which this can be accomplished, it being the expectation to apply the results obtained to a slightly larger apparatus which shall propell itself with engines which it will carry. An experimental machine of this type has been constructed but has not yet been tested and probably will not be for several weeks.

The results of the experiments indicate that there is little question but what man flight can be accomplished without the use of anything like a balloon. My apparatus is about a thousand times as heavy as the air it displaces, and depends for its support solely upon its forward motion through the air.

It is Professor Herring's opinion that when the flying machine has reached the commercial stage it will come nearer replacing the bicycle than any other vehicle now used, in that it will carry but few persons at a time and in its first applications will probably carry but a single passenger, the operator. Nevertheless, even in the beginning it will possess, for individual travel, several advantages which will quickly broaden its use, for besides being capable of speed equal to the average passenger trains and being able to go direct from one point to another the extreme cost of operation will not exceed one quarter of a cent per mile traveled or from 1 to 12 present railway fares.

Pressed for his opinion Prof. Herring stated that it was within the range of all possibility to construct a one-man machine which could travel as fast as 75 miles an hour and make as long a journey as 100 miles without the necessity of stopping for supplies on the way. Such an apparatus would be somewhat smaller than a canoe with its sails and would weigh considerably less.

SEVENTH YEAR.

REV. GEORGE A. SAHLIN BEGAN IT YESTERDAY.

The Church Is the Result of a Pastor's Effort to Exterminate Universalism from the City.

Rev. George A. Sahlin yesterday began his seventh year as pastor of the Universalist church of this city. He preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion and it is of interest to the members of all the churches in the city. Following is brief synopsis of the discourse:

The text—"And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church: and the gates of hades shall not prevail against it."—Matt. 16:18.

Previous to this utterance of Christ Peter confessed his faith that Christ was the Son of God, a confession essential to discipleship with Christ. The name Peter and the word rock are the same in the Greek. Christ built his church of men and women. The material structure is not the church but where two or three are gathered in the name of Christ he is with them and that company is the church.

As a protestant against the narrow view that Israel alone was favored of God or that salvation was accomplished solely by a profession in any ism aside from goodness the universalist has always been in existence.

In the earlier days, when monastic orders were strong, the current faith was that those men who desired heaven must flee the presence of women and live alone in the desert.

Or when men would maltreat the body so as to gain the favor of God we cannot wonder that other equally monstrous ideas of salvation should prevail even to the thought that God would eternally punish without discrimination all those who failed to make a Christian confession in their life.

That large hearted and intelligent men repudiated the horrible thought of the God so lovingly and sincerely portrayed by Christ ever being capable of decreeing everlasting punishment to any is to the eternal credit of the race. If the doctrine of eternal punishment and salvation being determined by a man's faith rather than by his conduct is true, we insist that church creeds are not the determining factor, but sin and unrighteousness.

The divine effort is put forth by Christ to save the sinner, and what Christ, the Son of God, attempts to do cannot possibly result in failure.

Our church is the result of a pastor's effort in another church to exterminate Universalism in the community. That church has had five pastors during my administration.

After having been called to the work of building up our church your pastor was challenged to a debate in which the same pastor boasted he would annihilate Universalism and we seem to thrive upon the process. Let it be said, however, that subsequently I enjoyed a most pleasant friendship with the annihilator. It was prophesied we could not build our church. A few constituted themselves a committee to watch us die, and we still live.

We have nothing but the friendliest feeling for our sister churches, their prosperity meaning increased spiritual riches for the community in which all can share. There is, however, peculiar work for each church to do and perhaps no church is better equipped for doing the work of Christ today than the Universalist.

Today we enter upon the seventh year of our work. A delightful work it has been. No church ever gave larger liberty to its pastor than that afforded by you. Our orthodox brothers when they live up to the injunctions of Christ will become Universalists. We are exhorted to pray for our enemies and if we pray in faith, our prayers will be answered.

The object of the gospel is to bring men to repentance. Where is the church which dares teach that it is ever too late to repent in this or any other world? And if the doctrine is taught where is its Biblical or Christly authority?

We look forward to the future with a confidence that the gospel as interpreted by the Universalist will find an increased acceptance in this and every other community in which it might be preached.

TELEPHONE WAR.

Grand Rapids Has an Interesting Fight.

Grand Rapids, Oct. 3.—The Bell and Citizens' Telephone companies came together Saturday in the first real encounter they have had, and it is impossible at this time to tell which wins. They are still at it, and the merchants and shippers of this city can take a very vigorous and telling hand in determining the victor.

The two companies have been sparing and fusing for months. There have been rumors of all kinds of moves and counter moves, but in most cases these have failed to materialize. The Bell company threatened vigorously when the local rival began to do business, but the Citizens' company kept right on until today it is away ahead in the rivalry, with more 'phones and more business than the old time occupant of the field.

Later the Bell company commenced to give away free 'phones. Almost any citizen of any standing, who wanted a Bell 'phone in his house, was promptly accommodated, and the company practically stopped charging for residence instruments altogether. This action was apparently taken for the purpose of forcing the business houses to retain Bell 'phones, because they would necessarily have to adopt the instruments their customers had in their houses.

But the free 'phone did not do any serious damage to the new company. Recently the Bell company announced to patrons that a charge of $1 a month would thereafter be made. It is averred that a considerable number of free patrons ordered a discontinuance of service.

The express companies some time ago gave their local agents the privilege of deciding which 'phone they would use and the numerous express agents here all decided in favor of the Citizens. Later the companies from headquarters sent out orders that the home telephone was to be discarded unless the company would furnish them free. This was refused and the new telephones were ordered out October 1. October 1 came and the American Express company took the initiative by refusing to answer its Citizens' phone. Inspectors were sent over from the exchange to see if anything was wrong with the instrument. The inspector was told by the officials that they would not answer the 'phone, and would not allow their clerks to do so. Merchants and business men in the meantime were ringing and operators told them the situation very frankly. Some vigorous language was heard and some hearty messages were sent the express agents, but they made no replies.

President Rood of the Citizens' company, started out to call upon the express agents. In each case they informed them that the 'phones would be taken out immediately. Then the telephone people made a flank movement. They hired office rooms in the building adjoining the express offices, put in two sets of 'phones of their own, with messenger service, and all subscribers who asked for Nos. 178, 52, 73 or 31 were given 988, and the messengers took their orders and carried them in writing to the express companies. It is announced that this service will be continued as long as the situation demands it.

GEN. DUFFIELD WILL STAY

Not Certain that 38d Michigan Officers Will Be Discharged.

A special to the Detroit Evening News says: A long list of officers to be mustered out has been prepared in the war department which will be made public this week. The list includes four major-generals; nearly a score of brigadiers and a number of line and staff officers of minor rank. It is not certain that any of the Thirty-third or Thirty-fourth Michigan officers are in it, but it is definitely stated that Capt. Fred M. Alger will be mustered out, his resignation having been tendered on account of his long illness. Gen. Duffield and Capt. McMillah, so Gen. Corbin says, will not be mustered out with the rest.

A Celebrated Case.

Dowagiac Republican: The suit of Rev. W. A. Welsher, a celebrated Niles ecclesiastic, against Prof. Stewart, also of that city, for slander, which is set for trial at the coming term of court in Berrien county, revolves some memories of a church row which brewed and simmered and boiled in that staid town a few years ago, and which lost the preacher his job, busted up Horace Greeley Ross, editor and publisher, and left sore spots all over the parish. Welsher afterward went west.

FALL CLOAK EXHIBIT.

The "Bielefeld" jackets are celebrated for their superb styles and perfect fit and each garment, from the cheapest to the very best, is made by an experienced tailor and in workmanship and finish the "Bielefeld Cloak" surpasses all others.

The Enterprise should be congratulated on being fortunate in securing this special display and the ladies who desire exclusive styles should not fail to see this large line. From October 11 to 14th.

TWIN CITY TELEPHONE 172.*MONDAY, OCT. 3, 1898.

IT is amusing to notice how the republican papers that fought and now praise Pingree find inconsistencies in the democrats.

WHEN the esteemed Palladium publishes a dictionary the two words, "Whiting" and "whitewash" will be defined as opposites.

So that there may be no censure in the hereafter it is suggested that the legal editor of the new daily decide whether the present murder case should be settled in "justice court" and thus save the county the cost of prosecution.

THE Twin City Times of Saturday contained a scurrilous and unprovoked attack upon the editor of the Palladium. THE EVENING NEWS has not and does not intend to stand sponsor for the publisher of any other newspaper, but we do hate to see this sort of journalism introduced into Benton Harbor. Abuse is not an argument nor vote getter.

THE democrats of New York are running two candidates for governor. One is Gus VanWyck, the little brother of the mayor of Greater New York. He is running on a platform that has no financial plank at all. The other is Henry George, Jr., who is running on a silver platform. The democrats of the Empire state are very shrewd in running two tickets. Being divided it will not be so hard for them to explain the big majority that Col. Roosevelt will receive.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Information on California.

Having spent about five years in southern California I am prepared to give valuable information to any one thinking of going for health. Any one wishing to purchase property or to make an exchange of property can see me at Rounds & Warner's office or address me at 118 Nowlen avenue, Benton Harbor. t1824 J. R. ODEN.

He was a man of small means, but a small allowance of $150 per annum would not be expected to live on such a pittance. When he had not 4 francs in the world, he would order boot polish at 5 francs a bottle from Paris and call the tradesman who supplied it "a scoundrel" for venturing to ask for his money. In the end his intellect gave way. He lost his memory and much of his little mind.

He grew slovenly and careless, yet to the last clung to his eau de cologne and some other luxuries. Finally, his mind all gone, he was removed to a charity hospital, being now reduced to the utmost impoverishment and content to change his linen once a month, instead of three times a day, as of old. Here he died, under the care of sisters of charity, on March 30, 1840. Thus ended the striking career of perhaps the most worthless fop whom history records, his death being a fitting termination to his useless life.—Lippincott's.

Melba's First Appearance.

Mme. Melba recently gave an interesting account of her first public appearance. "I was quite a young girl in Australia," she said, "when, notwithstanding the persistent discouragement of my father, who was averse to the idea of a singer's career for me, I engaged a hall and sent round a notice to all my friends. Unfortunately somebody mentioned the little scheme to my father, and he, furious at my clandestine enterprise, begged every one of his acquaintances to uphold his parental authority by ignoring the performance. But I wasn't disheartened, and at the hour announced for the commencement of my concert stepped on to the platform—to find myself face to face with an audience of two. And nobody else came."

A Hard Pie.

That German was a delight, her cookery was often vile, but she was amusing. Her first efforts at pastry making were lamentable. "Margarete, what was the matter with the apple tart? The crust was like a stone." "Oh, madame, I worked so hard. I said to myself, 'Now ze harder I work ze better it will be,' so I rolled and I rolled, and I used all my strength, and now it is von stone."

One morning Margarete bounces into my room and bursts out in an injured voice, "Madame, does our coachman belong to my towel?" At last I discover that she refers to the round towel in the scullery, on which the offender had wiped his hands in passing.—Cornhill Magazine.

Angelic Acid.

Apropos of acids, there is an angelic acid, obtained from that most graceful of our umbelliferous plants, cultivated in England in the sixteenth century as a pot herb and still used as a caudied sweetment. From this "herb angelick," or "root of the Holy Ghost," whose fragrance was reputed good against poison and pestilence, was also distilled a perfume, charmingly named angel water, affected by the beauties of the seventeenth century. "I met," says Sedley, "the prettiest creature in New Springgarden. Angel water was the worst scent about her."—Cornhill Magazine.

Advertisement of the French Society of Precision Values.

M. Fouche, the vice president of the French Astronomical Society, has invented a way of altering the present inclination of the earth's axis to the ecliptic. What he wants to do it for is not very clear. Perhaps, however, he doesn't want to do it and merely puts forward his method as one possessing a purely academic interest. At all events, it is worthy of the attention of company promoters.

All that has to be done, as described by Invention, is to dig an enormous circular ditch, say, in Africa or South America (its center must be on the equator) and to fill it with sea water. Fresh water will do if you can get enough of it, but as the radius of the ditch is to be a few hundred miles that is hardly likely. Having got your ditch full of sea water, nothing remains but to make it race round and round in the trench, whereupon the earth's axis will begin to point toward different quarters of the heavens from those it indicates at present. The amount of deviation will depend on the radius of the ditch, the amount of water it holds, the speed at which the latter moves and the time during which the motion is kept up.

We may suggest to M. Fouche that when a sufficient sphere of French influence has been secured in Africa he might have a trench dug and then by its use get all the ice melted round each of the present poles. French explorers could then discover them, whereupon the action of the trench would be stopped and the present climatic conditions restored. France could then remain as long as she wished the only nation to have reached the celebrated points on the earth's surface. As the digging of the ditch will be very expensive we make no charge for this suggestion.—Invention.

Printer's Ink Covers a Multitude of Deficiencies.

By the cunning use of printer's ink a dealer in rocking horses can make the public think he is having a sale of thoroughbreds, but he can't deliver the goods. In the same way a man who has a 2x3 place devoted to a hat rack and a few hat boxes can twist and distort the Queen's English so as to make the public believe he has a Grand Millinery Emporium—but he can't deliver the goods. What would be thought of us if we put a few dandelions in our front window and advertised the "Greatest Flower Show on Earth?" We devote more space to millinery alone than all stores in the twin cities combined and we can deliver the goods at prices lower than anybody else.

Our millinery represents the most advanced styles in the fashionable, practical and trustworthy kind and at prices, quality considered, are indescribably the lowest, at the Enterprise Mercantile Co.

When Hungry In China.

There was a painful lack of variety in our food. Men dying of thirst spend their last hour in thinking of iced champagne, sherry cobblers, cocktails and drafts of beer, whiskies and sodas, dead horses' heads or whatever their particular beverage may be. We gastronomically fooled ourselves to the top of our bent. "I think," one would say, "when we get to the Hotel de Paris tonight we'll have nice little French dinner of six courses, with coffee and green chartreuse to wind up with." "Well," another would remark, "I should be content with some soup, a little fish, a slice of beef and some tart." "Chops and tomato sauce for me," murmured a third, oblivious of the fact that befell Mr. Pickwick, who had a similar desire.

Then we would reach a slimy, begrimed village, creep into a smelling hut and make our dinner of pork and rice, or rice and pork when we desired to vary the menu. But one night, at a spot called Taiping-pu, when we called for the perennial pork we were informed we could not be supplied. "No pork," we exclaimed, "no pork in China!" Why, Chinamen are three parts pork." Then we were told we were in a Mussulman village, where swine were an abomination, but we could have salt beef. We jumped joyfully at the salt beef, so called, though we knew perfectly well it was nothing else but stale, unprofitable, sinewy wild goat.—Travel.

GEORGE Masters, who drove one of Dan Green's drays last summer, was killed in a railroad wreck at Tustin, Mich., Sept. 16. He had nothing on his person to identify him. In his note book was the name of Van Horn and by this name he was buried. His wife, who lives at Bangor, has just learned of his death and burial.

NATE Gifford, the popular liveryman, did the largest business yesterday that has ever been done in the livery line in this city. He just recently doubled the accommodations in his barn and now is hardly able to take care of all customers. A fine, new brick barn will shortly be erected in place of the old one and it will doubtless be the finest in this section.

Printer's Ink Covers a Multitude of Deficiencies.

By the cunning use of printer's ink a dealer in rocking horses can make the public think he is having a sale of thoroughbreds, but he can't deliver the goods. In the same way a man who has a 2x3 place devoted to a hat rack and a few hat boxes can twist and distort the Queen's English so as to make the public believe he has a Grand Millinery Emporium—but he can't deliver the goods. What would be thought of us if we put a few dandelions in our front window and advertised the "Greatest Flower Show on Earth?" We devote more space to millinery alone than all stores in the twin cities combined and we can deliver the goods at prices lower than anybody else.

Our millinery represents the most advanced styles in the fashionable, practical and trustworthy kind and at prices, quality considered, are indescribably the lowest, at the Enterprise Mercantile Co.

KEEPING ONE COW.

The Management Differ From that of a Herd in the Dairy.

The management of a single cow differs from that given the herd in the dairy, as she usually comes under the care of the whole family, and possesses a monopoly of attention and privileges that cannot be afforded under the wholesale system. She is the dependent of the poor farmer, and her place cannot be filled by any other animal.

But it is quite a business to manage the family cow that she may be of the greatest service but how to furnish her with green food is commonly an important question. Where pasture can be had at small cost advantage is usually taken of the opportunity, but there are times and places in which no such opportunity occurs. If the family possesses a small piece of ground, there can be grown a large variety of green feed, for early in the season a crop of peas can be grown for the family, the vines given the cow, and the whole crop taken off in time for some other crop. Small places are made rich in such instances when all the manure is put back on the land.
The keeping of the small farm and family cow have contributed more than anything else to the practice of a high system of farming, for it has compelled the adoption of the best methods in order to attain success.

A few cabbages put away in the fall
will help the cow along in winter,
and a large crop of carrots, beets,
etc., enough for one cow, can be grown on one-fourth of an acre, and but a small piece of fertile land will be required to grow millet or clover hay sufficient to keep the cow during winter.

A Jersey cow or grade Jersey is small and better adapted for a family cow than any other breed, if butter is the main article to be produced. But if milk is the only thing in view then perhaps the Holstein or some other breed may be better adapted to the purpose.

I have in mind the owner of a farm
of one acre, whose cow gives him about 500 pounds of butter every year, but it is by good feeding and attention that she does this, and while he claims that the profit from her is large, he admits that his cow would be an expense if she were an inferior animal. It is best, therefore, to be willing to pay for a good cow, for it is certainly cheaper to keep a good cow than a poor one. The outlay though large at first, will bring in quicker and surer return than smaller investment in a scrub. As the family cow receives kindness as a general thing from all, the lesson to dairymen is that by careful management of the herd, and treating each cow with care, there is no reason why the profit may not be proportionately as great.—V. M. Couch, in the Practical Diaryman.

MOVABLE SUMMER HOUSE FOR POULTRY.

can be moved by one person are the best things for chicks. There should be night to keep out pests.

FEEDING MILLET TO HORSES.

Two tests have been made with horses at the North Dakota Station to study the effect of feeding millet as a coarse fodder. In the first trial two geldings in good health were fed hay and grain for about two weeks. Millet was then substituted for hay for about ten days. The same ration as at the beginning was then fed for four days.
The temperature of the air, the temperature of the horses, the amount of food and water consumed, the weight of the horses, and the amount of urine excreted were determined. During a number of days the specific gravity,
and in some cases the total solids, nitrogen, and ash in the urine were determined. All the horses were driven daily for exercise.

The second test was similar to the first, and was made with two mares.
One of the mares became very lame and could hardly stand, and suffered from time to time from retention of the urine. She was killed and a post-mortem examination of the carcass was made. The other mare did not show any marked symptoms during the test. However, when fed millet for about three months, she would become so lame in the joints of the hind legs that it was almost impossible for her to walk. When feeding millet was discontinued she would recover. The lame ness was again produced by millet feeding. After about two years of alternate periods of millet and hay feeding,
she became practically worthless.

Circular letters were sent out to farmers asking for information concerning millet feeding for horses. A number of replies were received. The following conclusions were arrived at:
Feeding millet alone as coarse fodder is injurious to horses. It produces an increased action of the kidneys and causes lameness and swelling of the joints. It causes an infusion of blood into the joints and destroys the texture of the bone, rendering it soft and less tenacious, so that the ligaments and muscles are easily torn loose. The experience of many farmers confirms the experiments.—Exchange.

LIMA OR BUTTER-BEANS.

California is the State from which the largest portion of the supply of dried Lima or Butter-beans comes for the winter market. Drouth in that State has this year cut off a very large portion of the crop, and the probability is that there will be a very small crop to ship. This would be an inducement to growers of these beans in the South to carefully save all the beans possible, and dry them for marketing in winter. Instead of gathering closely and selling for a small price in the summer and fall markets, save the beans as they ripen, dry well, and bag them to keep out insects. They will be in demand in winter.

AN ARDENT WHISPER

He smoked like Tommy and she wanted to marry him.

I stopped for the night on Bowie branch, a tributary of Rife creek, last October. Supper being over, the "old man of the house" and myself drew chairs in front of a grateful fire of hickory bows. We were discussing such absorbing questions as the weather, free silver, coon dogs, the Cuban war, moonshine whiskey, Hannibal, and the best methods of baking ptoesum, when a tall, comely girl of about seventeen seated herself in the corner at my left, fixed her luminous blue eyes on my face, and hardly bated them for more than a minute. Finally she ejected a fierce pant, leaped to her feet, seized the poker and gave the side of the ruddy backlog quick stabs. Then she sat down and fixed her thirsty gaze on me as before.

She then rose suddenly, turned over the chair and rushed into the adjoining room.

I heard her throw herself heavily across the bed, groaning. Then convulsive sobs were born to my ears. Soon the old man arose and followed her. Soon I could hear their voices humming together.

Finally the talk ceased and the old man slowly tramped back to where I was sitting. He stood with his back to the fire a minute, and then gave an embarrassed cough and spoke:

"Stranger, you know what that 'ar gal is cryin' and sobbin' about?"

"I haven't the faintest idea, I'm sure."

"Wal, it's about you."

"Indeed."

"Yas, you an' the tother little feller. Yas, she says you're just like him."

"Like whom?"

"Tommie Latimer."

"Who's he?"

"Only a plain, unassummin' little hoss thief, stranger. He's away, for the time being, at Frankfort stranger—delayed thar for a short spell of four years, and it's impossible for him to get away at present. Comin' to examine you at close quarters, I believe the gal is right. Don't want to brag on a man right to his chin, but I must say that you do look just like him."

"My gal an' him was er goin' to hitch up an' trot off toward eternity together, but the ternal officers come in an' cut the tugs. Jist ready for the ceremony—the preacher was here; the shoats was baked; the punkin pies was smokin' on the table when the ornery officers come up an' jerked the little rooster off the pole of joy, took him away and cooped him up. She's been lovin' him right along until you came. Now she says she'll take her heart strings off him and wrap 'em round you if you are willin'."

"But—I began."

"Oh, she means it, stranger. Needn't think she's flirtin' with ye. She means what she says clear up to the hub! I'll see that she marries you, for that matter. Paid the preacher for marryin' her and little Tommie Latimer. Give him next to my best coon dog and the ceremony is still due us. She says it's no use to wait for Latimer to get in. You lookin' just like him, you see, and can imagine that you are him, and would thereby save three years and three months of marriage bliss that goes to waste by waitin' for him. So let's git the thing settled an' git them tear splashes off her cheeks an' them sighs outen her lungs. It bothers me."

"But—I'm married."

"Wal, that's the jestic of the peace right close here that can divorce ye in fifteen minutes from date, and I've got a jug of liquor and a pound o' long green terbacker to pay him for the job. Hurry up."

"It's impossible!" I said desperately.

"Don't talk so loud, then, so she can overhear; I'll fix it fer ye to escape if you won't marry her. I'll tell her to go to cookin' for the weddin' and that you are gone for the preacher. When you git out, split for tall timber. Leave the main road, for if she finds she's tripped up she'll foller ye, an' she's got the fastest hoss in the hills. Besides, she can shoot an apple from a gatepost at a distance of 100 yards. Sorry, stranger, you look like little Tommie. Would er loved to had ye stayed over night. As it is, my care for human life bids ye split for yer hoss."

And I "split."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Little Advice on the Point.

Mrs. Proudie, the wife of the bishop of Copeminster in England, does admirable work by going among poor people and talking of her own experience and giving wholesome advise. She did so the other day at Mudberry, near Copeminster. Next day the rector's daughter at Mudbury said to one of the audience of the previous evening, "Well, Mrs. Teddie, what did you think of Mrs. Proudie's address?"

"Oh, it was very good—very good, but, you see, she only went half way."

"Whatever do you mean, Mrs. Teddie?" said the young lady.

"Well, miss, she didn't tell us what she does when Mr. Proudie comes home drunk. We should like a little advice of that 'ere point."

Chairman of the Company.

Two small boys walking down Tottenham Court Road, passed a tobacconist's shop. The bigger remarked: "I say, Bill, I've got a ha'penny, and if you've one, too, we'll have a penny smoke between us." Bill produced his copper and Tommy, diving into the shop, promptly reappeared with a penny cigar in his mouth. The boys walked side by side for a few minutes, when the smaller mildly said: "I say, Tom, when am I to have a puff? The weed's half mine."

"Oh, you shut up," was the business-like reply, "I'm the chairman of this company, and you are only a shareholder. You can spit."—The Chestnut.

Must Have Loved Him.

Many stories have been told of a Manchester man who is supposed to be the—well, to put it humanely—plainest man in England. But we think the following is the funniest:

"Mamma," a child was heard to say in an awestruck whisper, after a prolonged survey of the peculiar features of the guest, "that gentleman's mamma must have loved children very, very, much."

"Why so, my dear?" inquired the unsuspecting parent.

"Oh," returned the child in the same audible whisper, "'cause she brought him up."—Grand Magazine.

The Scots' Pictorial has discovered that Andrew Lang and the late Thomas Carlyle came of gipsy forbears.

A paper of Bremen, Germany, recently told its readers that the Spanish fleet had bombarded Chicago.

At seventy-two years of age J. H. Twiss, of Independence, Kan., has had his left leg amputated by surgeons. Four years ago he lost his right one in the same way.

It was once customary in France, when a guest had remained too long, for the host to serve a cold shoulder of mutton instead of a hot roast. This was the origin of the phrase "to give the cold shoulder."

Geraldine Ulmar, whose prosaic name off the stage is Mrs. Tilkins, has recovered $3750 from the London Omnibus Company, which was held responsible for the collision in which her ankle was fractured a year ago.

A crockery dealer shipped 225 dishes from Lansing, Mich., to a missionary at Teheran, Persia. The goods were seven months in transit, and were carried 800 miles by caravan, but only one dish in the lot was broken.

Of all the guides who have helped American travelers to love the Alps the chief, perhaps, was Christian Almer, who died last month. Until he was quite an old man the famous old Swiss was actively engaged in "guiding."

Auchmithie, a fishing village near Arbroath, in Forfarshire, has lost the only postmistress it ever had. Mrs. Elizabeth Adamson, who died at the age of ninety-eight years, had held the office since penny postage was established, in 1840.

Ex-Governor Morrill, of Kansas, who once expressed the ambition of creating in that State the largest orchard in the world, has turned his Kansas farm over to a man with a stipulation that 65,000 fruit trees, mostly apple, are to be planted.

Quick work enabled the London Palace Theatre to exhibit the race for the Derby by biograph on the evening of the day the race was run. The films reached London at 8 o'clock, were developed at once by electric light, and shown on the stage before 10:30.

One of the strangest streams in the world is in East Africa. It flows in the direction of the sea, but never reaches it. Just north of the equator, and when only a few miles from the Indian ocean, it flows into a desert, where it suddenly and completely disappears.

Among the bills paid out by the Belfast (Me.) city government one reads: "Towing a whale, $5." This refers to the dead whale that has been floating from shore to shore about Belfast bay. Finally the authorities hired a man and his steam launch to tow the whale out to sea.

There have never been more than three cotemporary European Queens; in fact, the number who have occupied the throne in medieval and modern times is comparatively small. England heads the list with five; Russia can boast of four, but the total comes to considerably under thirty altogether.

Fifty-one years ago a well-known Norwich (Conn.) merchant deposited $10, the first money he ever earned, in the savings bank of New London. Recently he was in the city, and for the first time had the interest added to his book. He was somewhat surprised to learn that the $10 had grown to $136.00.

A Chinese thoroughfare is the exact reverse of ours in shape, the middle part being considerably higher than the two pavements on each side. In the rainy season if a vehicle should slip the occupants run considerable risk of being smothered in the mud and water which always accumulates at that period.

Mr. De G.—Nonsense.

"Oh, I've no doubt it's true. Mrs. Veragood, that horrid young widow, you know, seems to be infatuated with him, and I shouldn't wonder a bit if they'd pawn the communion service for a bridal outfit. By the way, Mrs. Fine-soul has not been out of the house for a week, and people think her husband has been beating her, but that isn't a circumstance to the way they talk about Mrs. Highmind. I saw her on the street today, and she said she felt sick, but most likely she'd been on an opium debauch. She has her husband's collars and cuffs washed at a Chinese laundry, and she's been seen to go there for them herself. Oh, she's a terror! Mrs. Highmind's husband has been away for two weeks, and I've got my opinion about it too. People say Mrs. Tiptop's hired girl left two weeks ago, the very day Mr."
